IV. PROGRAM

- ◆ Jerry Parks, Director of Marketing Services with Western Wood Preserves Institute will be the guest speaker. The presentation will discuss the types and applications of wood preservatives, standards and specifications, where treated wood is required in the Building Codes, and quality assurance issues - in particular, the CheckMark Quality Assurance Identification Program developed specifically for code enforcement. And, most timely, he will bring our group up-to-date on the recent agreement with the industry and EPA regarding the voluntary withdraw of CCA-treated wood in residential applications that takes place at the end of this year. Basically, CCA-treated plate stock, decking, fencing or landscaping timbers will NOT be available for residential purposes after December 31. It still will be available for commercial and industrial uses such as piling, highway construction, etc.
